

LOOP FITNESS — WORKOUT SECTION

Comprehensive Program Specification, Exercise Directory & Progression Architecture

1. Executive Summary & Program Structure

The Loop Home Workout architecture is organized into a progressive 3-tier periodized system. It supports both weekly schedules (the active rotation of workouts within a given 7-day week) and month-wise macrocycles (4-week blocks transitioning from anatomical adaptation to functional hypertrophy and single-muscle specialization).

Tier / Phase	Month-Wise Macrocycle	Weekly Schedule Split	Target Goal & Focus
Level 1 Beginner	Month 1 (Weeks 1–4)	Upper / Lower Split - Day 1: Upper Body - Day 2: Rest / Light Walk - Day 3: Lower Body - Day 4: Rest - Day 5: Upper Body - Day 6: Lower Body - Day 7: Rest	Anatomical adaptation, master 5 fundamental movement patterns (push, pull, squat, hinge, brace) in 3-round circuits.
Level 2 Intermediate	Month 2 (Weeks 5–8+)	Push / Pull / Legs Split - Day 1: Push Day - Day 2: Pull Day - Day 3: Legs Day - Day 4: Active Recovery - Day 5: Push/Pull Day - Day 6: Legs / Core - Day 7: Rest	Functional muscle grouping, progressive overload with external resistance (dumbbells/backpack/bands), hypertrophy volume.
Level 3 Advanced	Month 3+ (Weeks 9+)	Single-Muscle Dedicated Split - Day 1: Chest Specialization - Day 2: Back & Lats - Day 3: Advanced Legs - Day 4: 3D Shoulders - Day 5: Arms (Bi/Tri) - Day 6: Core & Conditioning - Day 7: Full Rest	Maximum focused volume per muscle group, high-intensity density, unilateral stability, 3-round power & endurance circuits.

2. User Completion Flow & 'What Happens Next?'

Does the user repeat the exercise for the next month, or does the app guide them to what is next?

- Immediate Post-Workout Response: Upon finishing the final exercise of the 3rd circuit round, the app triggers a celebration audio chime and launches the Workout Completed Modal. It automatically compiles and records session metrics: total sets completed (e.g. 15 sets), active duration (e.g. 25–40 mins), score percentage, increments workouts_completed count, adds active minutes, and updates the consecutive daily streak.
- Daily Progression & Next Session Guidance: When the user returns to the Workout Dashboard, the app dynamically reflects their updated daily progress on the Triple Circular Activity Rings (Calories, Active Time, Sets Hit). The Dashboard showcases the upcoming scheduled workout for the week (e.g., following the weekly schedule from Upper to Lower Body).

3. Microcycle (Weekly) vs Macrocycle (Monthly) Progression:

- Within Month 1 (Weeks 1–4): The user repeats the foundational Upper & Lower routines across their weekly scheduled days, but applies Progressive Overload Toolkit: aiming for cleaner reps, slowing the eccentric tempo (e.g. 3-second descent), or shortening rest intervals.
- Transition to Month 2 (Level 2): Per the built-in Level-Up Checklist, once all Beginner exercises are completed with pristine form for 2 consecutive sessions (~4 weeks), the user is promoted to Level 2 (Push/Pull/Legs).
- Transition to Month 3+ (Level 3): After 4 weeks in Level 2 with added resistance, the user advances to the 6-day dedicated single-muscle split.
